

Measuring Outcomes: A View from the Public Law Project

Advice Services Alliance Conference

University College London, November 2018

Joe Tomlinson | Lecturer in Public Law, King's College London | Research Director, Public Law Project

E: joseph.tomlinson@kcl.ac.uk | W: www.lawandgoodadministration.com | TW: @JoePTomlinson

- Promote and preserve the Rule of Law
- Ensure fair systems
- Improve access to justice

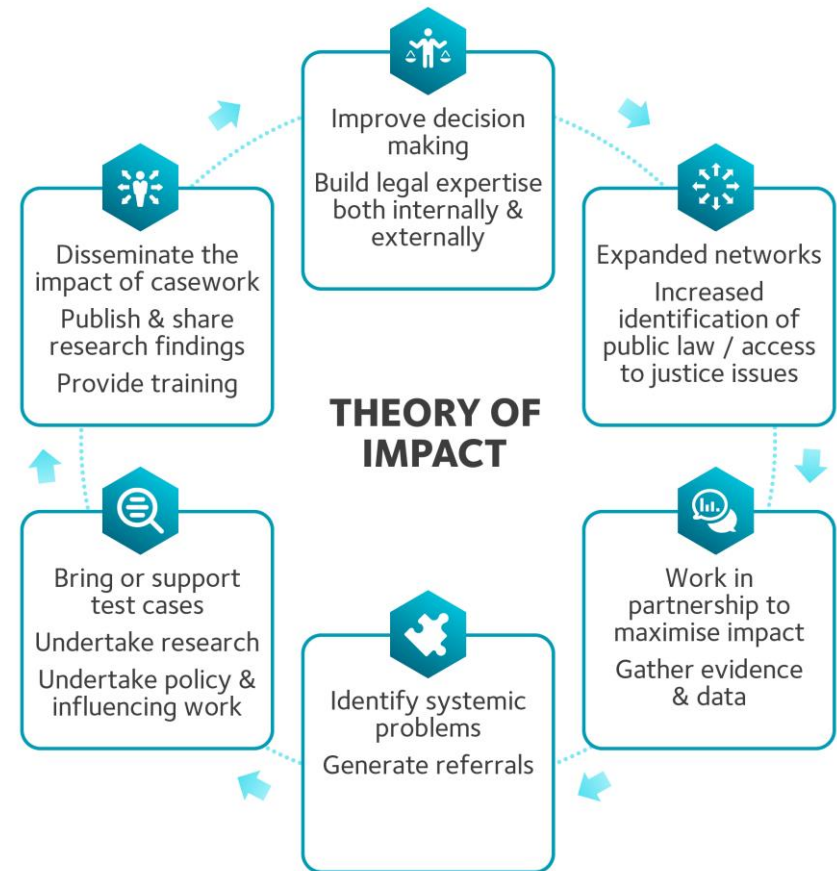

Joe Tomlinson | Lecturer in Public Law, King's College London | Research Director, Public Law Project

E: joseph.tomlinson@kcl.ac.uk | W: www.lawandgoodadministration.com | TW: @JoePTomlinson

- Research and policy work
- Providing training and support to lawyers and advisers
- Legal casework, including strategic litigation

- Development of new research team
- Integration of research team within wider organisational functions
- Move to evidence-based ways of working

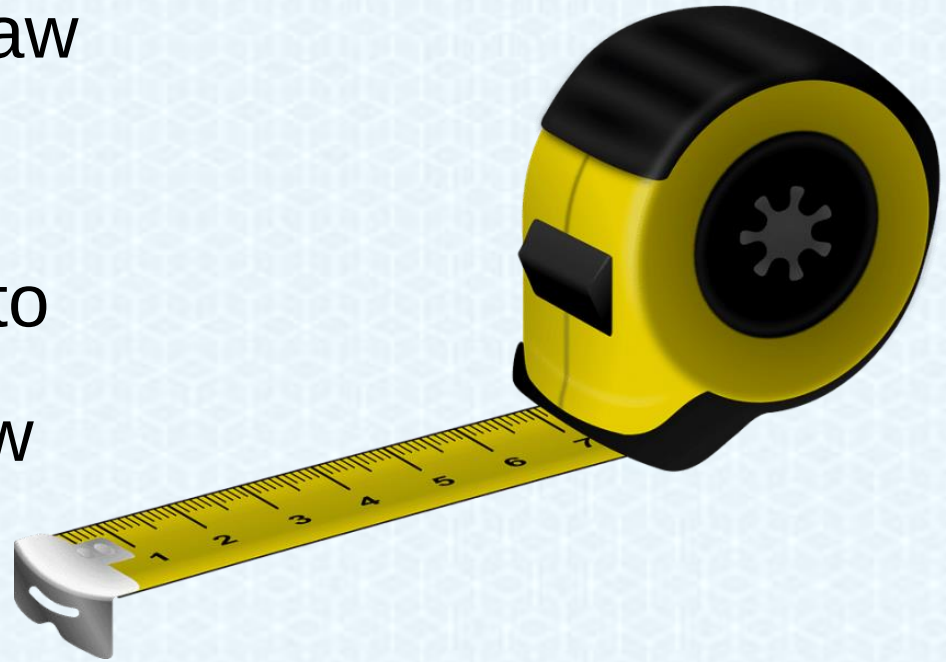

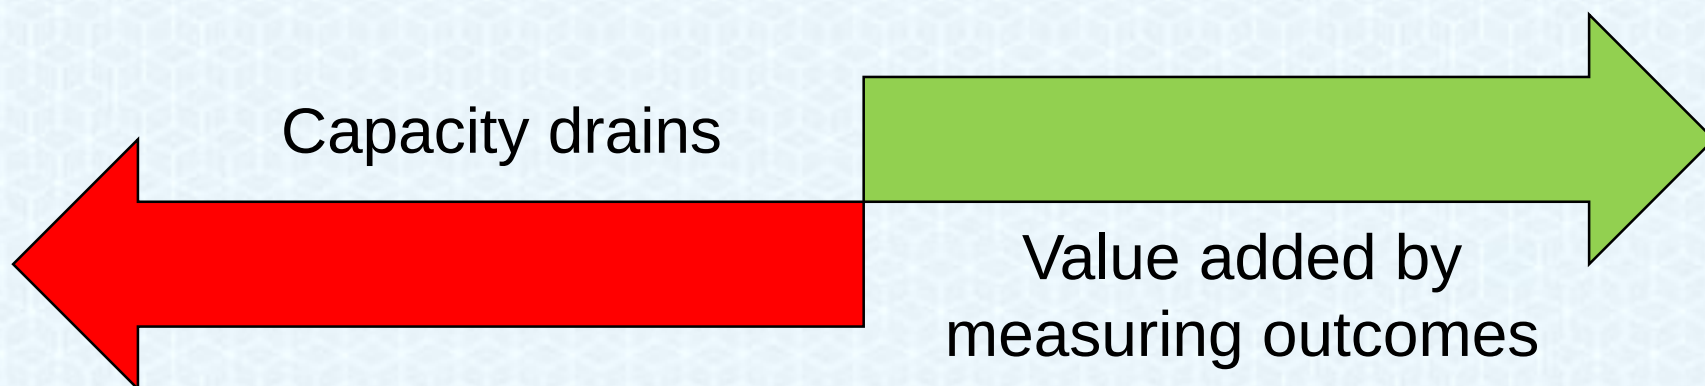

Joe Tomlinson | Lecturer in Public Law, King's College London | Research Director, Public Law Project

E: joseph.tomlinson@kcl.ac.uk | W: www.lawandgoodadministration.com | TW: @JoePTomlinson

- Outcomes of the public law system
- Outcomes that give rise to and/or relate to public law issues
- Outcomes of the Public Law Project's work

Value added by measuring outcomes

Capacity drains

